I would like to thank my supervisor Cristina Manolache for suggesting different projects and fostering my mathematical independence. I would like to thank Cristina, Tom Coates and Alessio Corti for their presence and support. I would like to thank my examiners Helge Ruddat and Richard Thomas for their kind availability and their precise comments.

I would like to thank my dear collaborators Francesca Carocci, Navid Nabijou, and Dhruv Ranganathan for all what they taught me, and for making me carry on, for I know by now that Maths is for me about honest dialogue and understanding together.

I would like to thank all the people that - were they aware or not - taught me a lesson in these years, among which I gratefully acknowledge Andrea Maffei, Angelo Vistoli, Richard Thomas, Nicholas Shepherd-Barron, Alexei Skorobogatov, Paolo Cascini, Johannes Nicaise, Tom and Alessio, Cristina, Francesca, Navid, Daniele Agostini, Fabio Bernasconi, Andrea Dotto, Pierrick Bousseau, Jakub Witaszek.

I would like to thank my London flatmates Rigo - for sharing more than one roof and a bunch of days out with me - and Gigi - for demonstrating unexpected aspects of the human nature. I am looking forward to having more to share with you.

There are then the friends and companions who gave me a smile throughout the trip: Francesca and Zak, Navid, Yuchin and Yichung, Alex, Otto, Luigi, Fabio B., Mirko and Enrica, Andrea D., Andrea P., Andrea R., Daniele Ag., Daniele An., Luca and Giovanna, Marco F., Marco I., Giulia and Leonardo, Federico S., Federico V., Fabio G., Giulio, Matteo, Giovanni, Michele, Vittorio, Federica and Bram, Ronja, Nico, Florian and Anna, Yanjun, Silvia, Rachele, Giacomo, Luca M.

Finally, I thank heartily my Dad, for running everything sort of smoothly, even from a distance, and for I trust we'll never let each other down. My Nonni, for they are my anchors. And my family, for the many last-minute pizzate. Special thanks to my family-in-law, Paolo, Patrizia, Gabriele and Martha, for the various rendez-vous all around Europe.

My last and warmest thank you is for Bea: with your chaos, you are the organising principle of my days; with your indecisiveness, you are the solid base of my joy; the one sunbeam in the darkest hours; the common denominator of all happy experiences, as diverse as life can be.
